TIFFANY & CO.

Retailers, Manufacturers, and Importers

There are special reasons why Tiffany & Co. are able to offer peculiar advantages in exclusiveness, quality and value

They are strictly retailers and manufacture and import only for their own trade and never sell their goods through agents or other dealers

Their manufactures of jewelry, silverware, leather goods, stationery, etc., combine originality of design, excellence of material, and the most skilful and artistic craftsmanship

Their importations, from the art centers of the world, through their Paris and London branches, comprise a complete stock of china, glassware, marbles, bronzes, fancy goods, novelties, etc., and include many unique examples of the work of the leading artists

Dealing directly, they are able to sell their wares at prices which will be found particularly attractive when compared with those of similar articles sold elsewhere

These advantages are not only extended to those who can visit the establishment but, through the facilities of a specially organized correspondence department, are equally available to those living at a distance from New York

The Tiffany 1910 Blue Book, a 760-page catalogue, without illustrations, will be mailed upon request

To

Charles Baker Wright

as a slight token of our esteem and affection for one who has given twenty-five years of his life to the service of Middlebury, the class of 1911
respectfully dedicates its Kaleidoscope

Charles Baker Wright. L. H. D.

Dedication

WE EARNESTLY wish that we might fittingly express our appreciation of the privilege which we have of pursuing a portion of our studies under the direction of Professor Charles Baker Wright, to whom we have dedicated this book. A privilege it most truly is to be guided in our study of English Literature by such a scholar as he, a man who gives his life to the work of developing in those under his instruction an appreciation of the heritage left them by the great writers of other days. High aspirations possessed those men and women, and noble thoughts have come down to us from them. How fortunate it is, then, that we should have as our guide, philosopher and friend a man whose every thought is high and whose every word sincere.

It is not easy to estimate the value of a life spent in influencing young men and young women to higher planes of thought and living, year after year, at just the time when impressions are made upon them which last forever. Such a life is that lived among us by Professor Wright, and such has been his influence here for twenty-five years.

Editorial

IDDLEBURY'S first year under the new regime has passed and it becomes our duty to compile a record of its activities for the friends and students of the college.

The year has seen the completion of the Pearsons fund, the establishment of a Department of Pedagogy, additions to the faculty to the extent of one-third of its number, the appointment of the first dean, the securing of a dean of women, the first summer session, revision of and additions to the curriculum, and great improvements in the buildings and their equipment. Surely, this has been one of the greatest years in the history of the college, and we feel that our task in properly recording it is a difficult one.

Following the precedent of former classes we have named our book "The Kaleidoscope" and have striven to make it of interest to alumni and students alike. We acknowledge that we have made mistakes but trust that you will be lenient in your criticisms, remembering that our purpose, at least, has been worthy.

If we have succeeded even in a small degree in recalling to alumni former Middlebury days, or in preserving for the undergraduates a record of the present, we will consider our task well done.

Senior Message

THERE are two occasions of peculiar moment to every college class—the entrance, and the graduation. The occurrences in connection with our entrance have become things of the past, and graduation is now uppermost in our minds.

It is well, we think, that our thoughts be turned toward the things to come. We who are referred to by the dignified title of "Seniors," and who are soon to become alumni, are leaving Middlebury, and probably most of us will never again be under her direct influence. We are graduating from the institution in which knowledge is gained from books, and we are entering the University of the World, where no tardinesses are permitted, no poorly prepared lessons can be made up, and no "cuts" can be taken. We feel prepared for our place in life's battle, and this preparation we owe to "Old Midd."—to the work we have done here, and to the ideals instilled in us by the old college which has for four years been our home.

We go from these halls feeling regret mingled with joy—regret at leaving a place so dear to us and friendships so much beyond all valuation, and joy in our good fortune in being given our part in the world's work to do. May we by what we shall later accomplish reflect all honor upon the old Vermont college, which for one hundred and ten years has not swerved from its purpose,—that of equipping its students for living useful lives.

Hit it up with a Rah, Rah, Rah,
Hoorah Reven, Hoorah Reven,
Hit it up for Nineteen 'Leven
Ah!————Bah!
'Leven, 'Leven, 'Leven.

Junior Oration

E! SUCH a simple word, but see what it stands for. 1911. There is something ineffably sweet to every member of the class in those familiar words "nineteen eleven." The war-cry "Rig Jig a Bah," which has so often rung out in triumph but never in disgrace, has an echo deep in our hearts, for ours is a class to which it has been given to embody the ideal of good fellowship. Long cherished will be the memories of our college days.

Pardon us if we say a few words about our record. As Sophomores we were the only class in six years to defeat our Freshman adversaries in football. Basketball as an interclass sport we originated at the college, winning the championship for three consecutive years, with but one defeat and that by a score of 26 to 23.

Of all class contests, what more need we say than that we have never been defeated in a single instance.

Nor are we without fame in scholarship. Our Junior year has brought a season of sobriety. Life has a different standpoint; confronted by realities, we throw aside indifference. We begin, in short, to think; and to dream and lay deep plans of a career. As upperclassmen we strive to assume unconsciously a new dignity. We look down upon our former places filled with a turbulent horde, and say softly to ourselves, "Were we like that?" And the hardest part of it all is, we were, which we might as well admit for veracity's sake.

Our greatest achievement lies in the fact that from the first we have created a unique standard of good fellowship. This is what distinguishes 1911—the bond of sympathy which unites us in whatever we undertake. Loyal to Middlebury and loyal to the class, every one of us feels the potent spell of 1911.

"Speed," the boy without a country, but not without a girl. He is one of the Gold Dust Twins, but allows the other to do the work.

He drops to sleep in every class
While knowledge-burdened hours pass
Dog, girl and sleep meet every need—
Our star in basketball is "Speed."

Wayne Cook Bosworth, ΔΥ Bristol, Vt.

New Jersey State Model School, '07; Class Baseball (1), (2); Championship Tennis Tournament (1); Manager Class Baseball (2); Glee Club (2), (3); President "Der Deutsche Verein" (3). 25 S. H.

Middlebury! Middlebury!

Nineteen-Twelve!

A Talk with a Sophomore

YOU ask for our record? Why, it isn't possible to give that on one small page of a college annual. On account of lack of space we will omit the events of our Freshman year. Suffice it to say that it was rather unfortunate that we were compelled by college customs to be antagonistic to a class like the present Juniors. But the physical pain and suffering, the disappointment in athletics for which they were responsible are now memories of by-gone days. Let us proceed to more pleasant things.

Now, let us see. First, and, of course, most important, we all have high marks—high, up towards fifty, I mean. Then we tied the Freshmen in football; and, thanks to the swiftness of Cupid's dart, we won the hat scrap.

And the flag scrap? Ah, that was the time when fifteen of us undertook to defend our flag for fifteen minutes against forty-six frenzied Freshmen. The trouble was that, while each of us was good for three Freshmen, and proved it, the odd one was free to shin the pole. But we covered ourselves with glory and mud for awhile.

It seems as though there was something else. No, it can't be hazing, for "Hammy" was in such good training that the rules committee and the coach made us cut that out until it was too late for any fun.

I almost forgot our Sophomore Hop!!!. It lasted until four A. M., but you had better ask the committee about that.

We know almost enough to run the college now, and next year when we get to be upperclassmen—but that is another story. Leave it to us.

Yours respectfully,

A BRAZEN SOPHOMORE.

Freshmen Boast

"O wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oursels as ithers see us!"

DOESN'T it seem funny that every class that comes to college is better than every one before? We prove the rule. Our history began September twenty-fourth when we arrived with the largest enrollment in the history of the college.

The first event was the hat scrap and although we didn't win we succeeded in getting very intimately acquainted with each other.

From that time on we grew wise with great rapidity. Our heads fairly swelled with knowledge. In fact, the town couldn't hold us and we chartered a train and aroused Rutland to a realization of our possibilities.

Next, we easily won the flag scrap, tied the Sophs in football, and trimmed them in basketball. We are proud of our band and debaters and are only waiting for an opportunity to show the college what we can do on the diamond and track. Until then we leave you to live in fear.

Middlebury College Band

Nothing has done more to arouse college spirit during the present year than the college band, which was organized last autumn by the aid, financial and otherwise, of Dean Howard. With but few players of any experience to serve as a nucleus the band has developed into an organization of twenty members.

The band has been very fortunate in securing the services of so able a director as Mr. A. D. Vittum.

The Bulletins

Published by the College in September, October, December, February, May and July

OUR Young Men's Christian Association, as in former years, has been holding its own. In fact, through the earnest endeavor of its president, W. H. Carter, it has been taking long strides in advance, likewise broadening its scope and view. Three students were at Northfield last summer, and came back to college filled with enthusiasm. The following lists will show how the Freshman Campaign turned out. Three Bible study classes have been meeting regularly. One has received the largest benefits through the efforts of Dr. Collins. The other two were led by students. Mission Study has also become one of the interests of the Association. Messrs. Aldrich and Latourette, secretaries in the Student Volunteer Mission Movement, visited us in its interests and as a result H. D. Moore, '11, and R. A. Kilburn, '11, went to the big Rochester Convention. A Mission Study Class has also been formed. Some of the members have interested themselves in the work which the local town Association is doing. These are taking charge of classes of boys; likewise conducting meetings in the various districts round about. It is needless to say that the regular events and the routine work have been kept up. The tone of the weekly meetings has been much improved. Different members of the Faculty have taken charge of them to great advantage. Musical features have added a good bit to the interest.

THE Young Women's Christian Association is a powerful influence for good among the students of the college. In it the student finds benefit not only along moral and spiritual lines but also in social and educational activities. In addition to the regular mid-week service, there are two organized missionary study classes and several Bible study classes.

The missionary interests are further aided by pledges, which help support work in Calcutta, India, and by our contributions to the World's Work. This year the Missionary question is especially in prominence, for at Christmas time the student volunteer convention at Rochester was held and our delegate returned filled with the spirit of the big missionary movement.

The membership of the association is about seven-eighths of the whole number of women enrolled and the association has everyone's hearty support.

The Silver Bay committee is well supported. Last year eight delegates were sent who should remain through the whole convention. In fact, the interest has become so great that there is now a Silver Bay Club whose membership consists of those who have been delegates to Silver Bay at some time.

The social committee is always kept busy. At the opening of the college year it was especially active. Last fall the first ten days were given up to the Y. W. C. A. to welcome back old girls and to heartily greet the new comers. First came the regular Y. W. C. A. reception to all the girls on the night before college opened. Then followed walks, picnics, and informal gatherings. Later in the term the annual library reception was given by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at which the entire college was gathered with one main object in view—the promotion of all worthy interests of the college and the desire for good fellowship and hearty co-operation. Especial mention should be made of the annual banquet which is always one of the most enjoyable events of the season.

The association is keeping pace with the college in its steady growth and continues to hold and guide the women as it has done in the past.

Press Club

THE Press Club of Middlebury College was organized last winter and promises to hold an important place in the list of student activities.

The object of the organization is to serve as a medium for the proper presentation to the public of college affairs, to offer a means for the expression of student opinion on matters of current interest, and to exchange items of mutual interest with similar organizations in other colleges.

ATHLETICS

Athletics

AN Athletic Council, which has revised our athletic system and placed it on a firm foundation, has been established the past year. The faculty and alumni are ably represented on the Council and are taking an active interest in the management of its affairs.

A better spirit has been shown by the men in training for the teams and a training table has been started at Hamlin Commons for the different teams during their respective seasons which has aided much in their development. The presence of a physical director would aid much in this work and it now seems certain that one will be secured for next year.

With the offer of $25,000 toward a gymnasium fund by Ex-Governor McCullough our hopes for a gymnasium seem about to be realized. Student enthusiasm has reached its boiling point and all possible aid is being given. The outlook for a continued development of our athletics is promising to say the least.

Baseball Season of 1909

WITH only three of the previous season's varsity squad in college the prospects for even an average team looked anything but bright at the beginning of the year. However, the entering class contained some promising material and had the weather conditions been at all favorable it is probable that the team would have made a very creditable showing.

After defeating Bristol in a practice game the team started on the York State trip, being scheduled to play Albany High School, Union and Colgate. The game at Albany was played in a snow storm, so that not much baseball was shown by either side, but Middlebury led all the way through and won by a score of 8 to 4. That night the team left for Schenectady and there stayed for two days watching it rain. Baseball was impossible and the team had to return having played only one game.

Captain Beane

The following Saturday came the game with Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy. Here the team showed its best form of the season and under ideal weather conditions won handily before the large crowd by the score of 6 to 1.

At this point the team began to slump and after a week of rain and the canceling of the Albany Law School game Rensselaer redeemed itself by defeating us on our own grounds 12 to 2.

The next week Norwich came to town but returned home in a pouring rain without playing the game. Massachusetts State was our next opponent and showed a good knowledge of baseball. Their hitting, aided by Middlebury's errors, netted them a victory 11 to 1.

After canceling the St. Lawrence game on account of rain the team left for Northfield on June 5th for the final and best game of the season.

At the close of a season endured in a cold rain and on a wet diamond the team pulled itself together and played baseball for eight full innings, but was beaten in the ninth by the score of 3 to 1.

Football Season of 1909

Captain Carter

The football season of 1909, when viewed from the standpoint of actual games won, cannot be considered successful, in spite of the fact that never was more faithful work done by a team and its coach than was done by the Middlebury men, under the able and conscientious direction of Coach Pierce.

The first game of the season was played with the St. Michael's team, at Middlebury. We won this game, which was a close and a pretty one throughout, by the score of 5-0.

Owing to circumstances beyond our control, the games with Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute scheduled for October 16 and 23 had to be cancelled, and on October 23 a game was played at Middlebury with the Berkshire Athletics, from the Williams squad. Middlebury won, 10 to 0, in a game that was snappy from start to finish.

On October 30 the team went to Canton, N. Y., and contested with St. Lawrence University. Although the Middlebury men fought hard, they were defeated by the score of 17 to 0.

On November 6 Middlebury lined up against Union at Schenectady, and put up a brilliant game. At the end of the first half the score stood 6 to 0 in favor of Middlebury, but the game was lost in the second half through lack of fresh material, and at the close of the contest the score was 18 to 6 in Union's favor.

The last game of the season was with the old rivals, Norwich University, and was played at Northfield, Norwich winning by the score of 13 to 0. A feature connected with the game was the presence upon the side lines of about fifty rooters from Middlebury, of whom half the number walked from Middlebury to Northfield (about forty miles) in order to assist in cheering the team.

Track Season

INTEREST in track has continually increased since the beginning of the inter-class meets in the spring of 1907. In the new constitution of the Athletic Association provision was made for the formation of a varsity track team and at the beginning of the present year work was begun in earnest with that end in view. The track has been put in condition and a good number of men are trying for positions. A dual meet has been arranged with St. Lawrence University for Junior Week and the leading point-winners will be sent to compete in the New England Intercollegiate Meet to be held at Brookline, Mass., in the latter part of May.

Inter-class Meet

June 15, 1909

The annual inter-class track meet was held Friday afternoon of Junior week and proved even more interesting than that of previous years. 1911 was unable to equal her fine showing of the year before, owing to the loss of several good men, and was forced to finish second to her freshman rivals of the class of 1912. King, '12 was easily the star of the meet with 25 points and the breaking of two college records to his credit.

Class Basketball

Season of 1909

With the loss of only one man from its championship team of the previous year, the class of 1911 again won the championship for the season of 1909. The contest was exciting from the first, however, and the class of 1910 finished a close second, an extra game being necessary for the decision.

Season of 1910

The season of 1910, just closed as this article is written, has been a repetition of that of former years. The other classes strove in vain and 1911 won the championship for the third time, with an unbroken list of games won. The reason for this success is the team's ability to play its hardest game in the second half and its willingness to sacrifice individual starring for team work.

Washington's Birthday Banquet

Town Hall, February 22, 1910

THE tenth annual banquet in honor of the birth of Washington was attended by two hundred of the faculty and students of the college and was one of the most successful yet held. The success was largely due to the singular efficiency of the student committees that had the affair in charge. At the head was a general committee consisting of the presidents and vice-presidents of the four classes; under this were special subcommittees having in charge separate portions of the work.

The hall was very prettily decorated with the national colors and strings of smilax.

The food was abundant, delicious, and exceptionally well served.

In the opinion of many the program was even better that that of former years. The guest of the evening was Hon. W. B. C. Stickney, of Bethel, and his remarks on the character and ideals of Washington were delivered with weight and charm.

The most pleasing incident of the evening was when Toastmaster Cady spoke feelingly of the debt which all students of Middlebury owe Professor Wright and asked for a few remarks from him.

Professor Wright ably responded dwelling on his pleasant memories of former students.

Middlebury College Debating Union

SINCE the organization of the Debating Union in the fall of 1908, three intercollegiate debates have been held. The first, with Norwich University at Northfield, in April, 1909; the second, with St. Lawrence University at Middlebury, in May, 1909; and the third, with Clark College at Middlebury, in April, 1910.

Considering the length of time that the department of debating has been established, and the interest in, and sympathy with, the movement, which has been shown by the student body, the department bids fare to escape the fate of former efforts to establish a regular department of debating at Middlebury.

The Union has been greatly strengthened by the Freshman debating societies of the classes of 1911 and 1912. The 1911 class team by defeating Norwich during the Junior Week of 1908 aroused the interest which made possible the establishment of the Union in 1909.

The plan of forming a triangular league with Norwich, and the University of Vermont or Saint Lawrence University did not this year materialize, but it is earnestly hoped that it will next year. Such a league would undoubtedly ensure the permanence of the Union. May the time be not far distant when we can say, as we did in 1903, "If we cannot defeat Dartmouth in athletics, we can in debating." Which the greater glory?

Dramatics

RAMATICS have until recently played a minor part in the activities of the college, but in view of the increasing interest, a meeting was called early in the year for the purpose of forming a College Dramatic Club.

Fifty students enthusiastically responded to this call, the Club was organized, and plans were made to present a series of plays during the college year. It was also decided at this time to adopt a higher standard in the class of plays presented and thus bring it about that the time spent in preparation should be educationally profitable.

Plans were made at once for presenting the first play before the Christmas recess, but as the time of preparation was so limited, a light play was chosen, entitled "Half-Back Sandy." The play was presented at the Opera House Tuesday evening, December 21, and was a pronounced success in every way.

Soon after the holidays the college voted to repeat the Roman Drama of 1900 at this year's commencement. Such a vast undertaking necessitates the co-operation of the whole college, and the Dramatic Club at once gave up the idea of presenting another play this year, but all have entered heartily into the work of the Drama.

It seems fit in this connection to state that the present Juniors have made a new departure in presenting this year a Junior play of a higher standard than has hitherto been produced, and accordingly present during the coming Junior Week Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Dramatics have at least made a beginning in Middlebury, and let us hope that next year the work so enthusiastically begun may continue.

Commencement week of 1909 began Sunday, June 27th, with the baccalaureate sermon by President Thomas in the Congregational Church. On the evening of the same day came the celebration of the anniversary of the college Christian Associations, at which Rev. Daniel Martin was the speaker.

Class Day exercises were held Monday, the 28th, on the campus, special interest being taken in the awarding of the Fairchild prizes, which were granted to Carson Henry Beane and Caroline Howard Clark.

On Monday evening came the Parker-Merrill contest in the Congregational church. The church was crowded and enthusiastic applause was given the contestants.

The following morning the Alumni Day exercises were held on the campus. At this time national and state flags were formally presented to the college, and an address was given by Governor Fort, of New Jersey. After the conferring of the honorary degrees of LL.D. upon Governors John F. Fort of New Jersey and George H. Prouty of Vermont, the Alumni Luncheon was held, followed by the various fraternity teas and class reunions.

Tuesday evening the church was again crowded for the Commencement Concert, which was rendered by David Bispham and was the best given in Middlebury for some time.

Wednesday's events began with the procession of the faculty, alumni, and undergraduates from the college to the church, where the Commencement exercises took place, followed by the Commncement Luncheon in the Town Hall. The closing events of the day were the President's Reception and the Senior Ball. This ended the one hundred and ninth commencement of the college and the first under President Thomas.

The Changeless Tide

OH, the waves are awash on the lonesome shore,
And the wild duck hovers low,
And the fish leap high from the marsh-edged mere,
And the cool, moist breezes blow,
And the sun is low in the gorgeous west,
And the tide creeps in from sea,
The same as in days of long ago
When I paced the shore with thee.

But the days they are lost in the rushing years,
And their memory is but a name,
And our love is cold, we live apart,—
But the world rolls on the same,
The world is a riddle forever and aye—
A riddle without a key—
And old loves die and lovers sigh,
And the tide creeps in from sea.

Middlebury's Ground of Hope

A NEW YORK paper summed up the moral of a political campaign some years ago in the words, "Merit wins." Despite all seeming instances to the contrary, that is my creed: Merit wins, not luck nor craft, nor noise. I hold it true for individuals, and I believe merit can be counted on to win for a college.

What constitutes merit in a college? I answer, in the first place, a righteous foundation. Sectarian zeal, desire to perpetuate a family name, real estate promotion, have figured in the building of colleges, but an institution tracing its origin to one of these motives labors under a handicap. A righteous foundation is the sincere desire to benefit one's fellow men and to elevate the life of a community or state.

What foundation could be more righteous than that of our own Middlebury? The men of this village and the surrounding towns met together, and acting under the counsel of President Dwight of Yale pledged their modest means for the building of a college, in order that Vermont might have an institution of higher learning and that the youth of this country-side might enjoy training for leadership. The love of God and of their fellow-men were their only motives. They sustained the college for decades out of their slender means that they might keep open the door of opportunity to the youth of this region. Middlebury was righteously founded.

In the second place, to have merit a college must pledge itself to disinterested service of its constituency. The New England colleges were established for practical purposes. Their original object was to supply leaders then needed for public enterprises in the colonies. The churches were in danger of being without an educated ministry, and the colleges set themselves to educate ministers. The third professor at Middlebury was a Professor of Law, and the college then thought it nothing beside its purpose to train men definitely for the legal profession. In recent years all colleges have somewhat lost sight of their responsibility of fitting men for leadership in work needed by the state, but in our new department of Pedagogy, and in the introduction of practical courses, we are returning to our original mission. For the future our single ambition must be the service of the community, and to the extent our resources allow we must enter all fields in which leaders are needed.

Further, a college wins merit by efficient use of the means in hand. We are not to blame for not undertaking more than our resources allow, but we must bend every energy to make every dollar we have accomplish its utmost in educational result. We must not use our means to pauperize students, but must require them to bear a fair proportion of the cost of the advantages placed at their disposal, in order that college funds may go farther in providing additional advantages and offering them to a larger number. Our dormitories may be put on a good business basis and made to pay a fair return on the money invested in them. Good will, wherever found, must be turned into money. Only when we make utmost use of what we have can we legitimately expect more.

Lastly, no college has merit whose students do not possess the true student spirit. They must be devoted first of all to scholarly pursuits, and regards sports and social pleasures as secondary, not primary. They must be loyal first of all to the college, and hold every organization within the college, however pleasant in itself, as subsidiary. They must maintain the honor and good name of the college in all their conduct and do nothing to prejudice the good name of the college in the minds of those who might be its friends.

My basis of hope for Middlebury is my conviction that Middlebury possesses merit in large measure in each of these four respects: a righteous foundation, disinterested service of the community, efficient use of the means in her possession, and a healthful, loyal student spirit. Middlebury must win, for merit wins, and our fathers have fixed her merit sure.

JOHN M. THOMAS.

Summer Session Faculty

Summer Session

THE first session of the Middlebury College Summer School opened on July 6, 1909. Being an entirely new departure for the college, all the former students and friends of Middlebury were eagerly awaiting the outcome. That the result was all that was hoped for and much more is well known to all. The new undertaking was attended with splendid success and showed that Middlebury can safely compete with other colleges in an annual summer session. The success was in large part due to Professor Walter E. Howard, the director of the school, the nine members of the faculty and several alumni of the college who gave their time and services.

The attendance was even more than had been expected, the total registration being over eighty. The courses offered were comprehensible and valuable. They comprised not only many included in the college curriculum but special courses in arts and crafts, domestic science, and Biblical literature. During the session there were several lectures given by men and women prominent both in and out of the state of Vermont. These lectures were upon widely different subjects, but all were able and interesting and proved a valuable addition to the schedule.

A tennis tournament and several baseball games furnished an opportunity for recreation during the session. At its close the opera, "The Bohemian Girl," was presented by the co-operation of the townspeople, faculty and students. The parts were well taken and the pretty opera with its picturesque costumes made a very favorable impression.

On the whole, Middlebury's first summer school was a decided success and the establishment of such a department in the college cannot but increase the fame and add to the success of the college.

ANOTHER BIG STICK?

College Notes

Great excitement among the Faculty! R. P. Dale is reported to have returned to college for a two weeks' stay.

Later Report.—Dale has been called home again on account of a breakdown in the laundry.

Prof. Wetherell was recently seen to lift both his eyes and voice while lecturing to a class.

Coolidge caused a sensation last week by getting to a recitation on time.

President Thomas was home for the week end.

Dr. Cunningham recently dismissed a class three minutes before the bell rang.

A number of new courses have recently been added to the curriculum; but none has yet been made interesting enough to disturb Barnes' slumbers.

Prof. Burt—"Mr. Hallett, you may tell us what a medullary ray is."

Hallett—"One of the sun's rays."

Davidson, '13—"It is enough to make anybody sick to represent the class of 1913."

Agnew (translating "Hauts de taille")—"With high tails."

Palmer (translating French, after Logic exam.)—"Oh, que de mal on a toujours avec les savans!"—"Oh, how much trouble one always has with philosophers!"

Prof. Howard—"Ryder, you may define Pleadings."

R. Ryder—"Pleadings are the mutual alterations between the plaintiff and the defendant."

Hunt (on chapel stage, pointing to his nose)—"Here you have Specimen No. 1 of a football hero."

Hadley (on stage)—"There is a man who is a plugger, there is a man who is a sport, but here you have a fusser."

"Twelve in my family, and I am the only one that toes in."—Palmer, '11.

Prof. Cunningham in Ethics—"What it the Rationalistic theory, Miss Adams?"

Miss Adams—"They believed that our different experiences teach us how to conduct our conduct."

Prof. Burt—"To aid hybridization we often cover the buds with paper bags."
Hallett, '10, (raising his hand)—"Say, Professor, is that the reason why they hang egg-shells on trees?"

A Logical Conclusion—"Miss Tuttle, what is the mood of this syllogism?"
"Why—a'—I—no," (triumphantly), "A—I," and Nevling blushed.

Prof. Cunningham—"Miss Welch, you may describe perception."
Miss Welch—"Well, when you look at anything, you perceive it, and then see it."

First Freshman—"When will Barnes begin to lose some of his 'speed'?"
Second Freshman—"When the Seniors graduate, I guess."

Extract from one of Robby Twitchell's chapel orations—"I think it would be a dood plan to twy this and incidently wort up a yittle tollege spirit."

HEARD IN BOTANY LABORATORY.

First Soph. (who has just finished a drawing)—"I think I'll say a prayer now and take this up to Buddy."
Second Soph.—"Aw, cut out the prayer. What chance has the Almighty with him?"

Professor Wright, illustrating excessive optimism—"A hungry hunter lost in the Maine woods, seeking to cheer his companion, remarked: "If we had some ham, Bill, we'd have some ham and eggs—if we had the eggs."

Professor Bryant—"Miss Welch, how would you describe electricity?"
Miss Welch—"It resembles a liquid fluid."

Prof. McGilton—"What is efflorescence?"
Miss Hart—"When a substance gives up its water readily it is said to effervesce"
Prof. McGilton—"How do we collect chlorine gas?"
Burnham—"Why—er—you collect it in bottles, I suppose."

Seen on the Bulletin Board

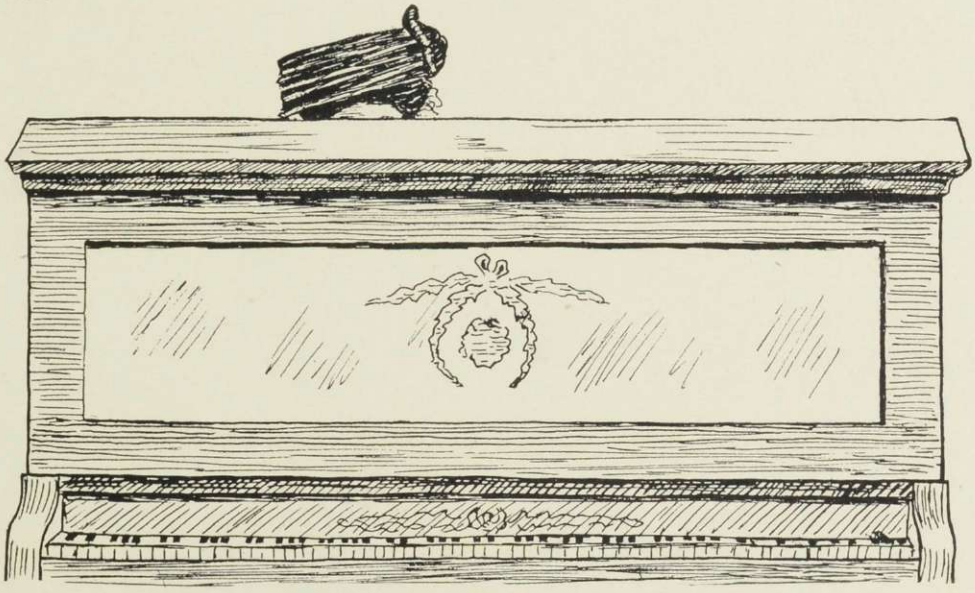
"There is no chapel on the day
On which they hang a man."—Ballad of Reading Goal.
Who will volunteer?

"People who love in glass houses should pull down the blinds."—Peach.

"I hear the Glee Club has a new piece."
"You mean one they haven't sung before, I guess."

Prof. Howard—"I assume that you have all studied to-day's assignment."
How'd he guess it?

Prof. Bryant (in Physics)—"You see that black spot simply because you don't see it."



Scene in Women's Chapel. 8:15 A. M.

Prof. Howard—"What is the advantage of a corporation having the power of being perpetual?"

Tuck—"So it can exist after death."

Prof. Howard—Was the manor court essential to the English manor?"

Morhous—"Why—er—I shouldn't say it was."

Prof.—"Well, what does Blackstone say?"

Morhous—"He probably says it was."

Prof. Wetherell—"Who commanded the American fleet at the battle of Lake Erie?"

McConnell—"Admiral Farragut."

Prof. W.—"Who at New Orleans?"

McConnell—"Henry Clay."

Prof. Wetherell—"What was Douglas's attitude during the war?"

Miss Walker—"He was a staunch supporter of Lincoln throughout the war and upheld him in everything that he did."

Prof. W.—"He couldn't very well; he died in 1861."

Prof. McGilton—"What is the most important compound of hydrogen?"

Burnham—"Why—er—H^2SO^4."

Prof. M.—"Huh! I'm glad it isn't.

Visitor in hallway—"Who is that crying in there?"

"Oh, that's Miss Royce reciting Logic "

Professor Brown—"Which would be more apt to become fossilized, a clam or a horse?"

Barnes—"A Clam."

Professor B.—"Why?"

Barnes—" 'Cause a horse is like a jelly-fish."

Professor Howard—"Who swam the Hellespont?"

Hunt (volunteering)—"Alexander."

Freshman—"How did you pass that French course?"
Hemenway—"Oh, simple enough; I just rocked the twins."

$1,000 reward to any person finding Hallett walking alone.

Thomas, '12, on chapel stage—"Unless you think it's a snap to carry two buckets of sap through"———

(Repeating)—"Unless you think it's a sap to carry two buckets of snap"———
(Laughter and applause.)

WHAT MIDDLEBURY GRADUATES SAY OF US—

EDITH VERA FAY, Middlebury College '09, Addison, N. Y.

"I have accepted the position at Addison and will send check for commission very soon. I thank you for the interest you have shown in me and am very much pleased with my place."

S. W. Sanford, Middlebury College '09, Middlebury, Vt.

"I have at last secured a position without the help of any agency at all in Davenport, Iowa; but I wish to thank you for your work in my behalf. You have shown an interest in me and I am sure you would have placed me in a good position. If in any way I can put business in your hands or return your many favors I shall certainly do it. Thank you again for your interest."

Susie C. Holmes, Middlebury College '09, Richford, Vt.

"The position of preceptress at Richford has been offered me and I have accepted it. I thank you for your successful efforts in my behalf."

Myrtle A. Mosier, Middlebury College '07 Ware, Mass.

"I have been appointed teacher of Latin at Ware. I will send you the commission when the first month's salary is received."

We not only recommend our candidates but they secure the positions for which we recommend them. Now is the time to register. Send for bulletin.

Marlin

Take-down Repeating Shotgun

Marlin repeating shotguns are guns of perfect proportions, made in 12 and 16 gauges, with simpler mechanism than any other repeater.

They have the Marlin solid top always between your head and the cartridge, the side ejector, and the closed-in breechbolt that keeps out rain, snow and sleet, dirt, leaves, twigs, and all other foreign matter. These features add greatly to the efficiency of a gun and to the comfort and convenience of the shooter.

The Model 16, 16-gauge Marlin is the only light weight repeating shotgun made. It weighs but 6¼ pounds, handles fast and shoots close and hard. It is unequalled for quail shooting, for squirrels, rabbits and all small game.

Before buying a gun, just get our 136-page catalog. Sent free — by return mail—for 3 stamps postage.

Middlebury College

FOUNDED IN 1800

The Central College of Vermont

Equidistant from the northern and southern boundaries and halfway between Vermont's largest cities.

On New York Central Lines (Rutland Railroad.) Four trains daily each way between New York and Montreal, via Albany, Troy, Bennington and Rutland, and four trains also between Boston and Montreal via Fitchburg and Bellows Falls.

Fare (mileage) from New York, $5.34; from Boston, $4.00.

In addition to the Classical Course which allows of election in History, Literature, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Pedagogy, Natural and Physical Sciences, the College has established the past year a

Two Courses

SCIENTIFIC COURSE leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Science. Latin is not required for admission to this course. The design is to prepare men for the Junior year in the best technical institutes. An arrangement has been concluded with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology whereby graduates from this course are admitted to their Junior year without examination. The course includes a full year of Mechanical Drawing and also of Field Surveying, three years of Chemistry; two each of Physics, Geology and Botany. Men only are admitted to this course. Also a PEDAGOGICAL COURSE leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. In connection with the Department of Pedagogy established by the State of Vermont in 1908, this course has been provided to allow students four years of training for teaching, in connection with general college study. The History of Education, Principles and Methods of Secondary Education, Observation and Practice Teaching are emphasized.

Expense

The location of Middlebury in a frugal agricultural region favors economy. Many students spend less than $300 a year and earn much of this themselves. Especial encouragement is shown to the enterprising youth who have to help themselves. Tuition is $80 a year. Rooms for men, in comfortable stone dormitories, with steam heat and electric light, $30 a year.

Summer Session

July 5th to August 12th an additional session of the College will be held, with instruction in Latin, English, German, French, Spanish, Psychology, Ethics, Pedagogy, History, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Biblical Literature, Manual Training, Arts andCrafts, Domestic Science, Physical Education, Photography, etc. Registration, $5; Tuition $10. Tuition free to Vermont teachers and clergymen. For a summer session bulletin apply to Dr. E. D. Collins, Director.

JOHN M. THOMAS, President.
